BACKGROUND:

On 11/3/70, Republican C. W. "Bill" Young of Seminole, was elected to the 8th District seat formerly held by Republican William C. Cramer, who sought the Senate election.

INFORMATION IN BUFILES:

On 8/30/63, [redacted] to the Governor of Florida, called Mr. De Loach's office and advised that the Florida Legislative Investigation Committee, was coming to Washington and desired an appointment with Mr. De Loach. The group, which included C. W. Young of Pinellas Park, Florida, appeared at the Bureau on 9/4/63. The spokesman for the group indicated they desired to determine whether the Bureau could be of any help in suggesting to them means of running the Committee and also a possible suggestion as to who might be appointed as Investigative Director for the Committee. No recommendations were made; however, former SA C. Lawrence Rice was subsequently named. It was later learned that three members of the Committee, including Senator C. W. Young, were increasingly active in recommending direction of the committee's investigations and had put severe pressure on the staff to investigate and hold hearings on racial conflict which occurred at St. Augustine, Florida. It was further learned that these legislators were of the opinion that the Federal Government and the state government were unduly involved in the situation at St. Augustine, showed strong favoritism toward Negroes, and mistreated local people of white race. The investigators stated that in the absence of facts to support these contentions, they (investigators) refused to pursue any inquiry and submitted their resignations. (105-52615-106, 118)

It would be well for all of us to remind ourselves of the deeds of this young 28-year-old Florentine sea captain who is credited with the discovery of New York harbor and Narragansett Bay. These discoveries and his meticulous charting of our coastline from the Carolinas to Newfoundland made relatively simple the navigational procedures which faced the thousands of shipmasters bringing in settlers and establishing trade and commerce between the old and new worlds.

Those who are familiar with Verrazano's successful explorations into the uncharted waterways of the strange and fearsome shores of the new continent, marvel at his perseverance and his bravery. They marvel, too, at the thoroughness and competence of his records and maps marking each new area he penetrated with his courageous crewmen.

Even with all our modern appliances and advanced skills, these maps and charts made almost five centuries ago compare favorably with those of our experts today.

Americans of all racial and national backgrounds would like to claim Giovanni da Verrazano as one of our most illustrious forebears because his was the kind of dauntless courage which helped to make this country great.

Our friends in South America might have enjoyed the same type of rapid settlement and close ties with the old world if Verrazano had been able to chart for them the shores and waterways as he did for us. But Verrazano's southern explorations met with tragic consequences. The actual facts concerning his last and most ill-fated voyage are not clearly established, even so it can be assumed that this gallant navigator was captured by savages, even by cannibals who devoured him and his fellow crewmen.

Mr. Speaker, let us all join with our fellow Americans of Italian lineage and pay tribute to Giovanni da Verrazano.

ATTACKS AIMED AT DESTROYING THE FBI

HON. C. W. BILL YOUNG

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 29, 1971

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I strongly deplore the vicious and unwarranted attacks being aimed at FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. On May 10, he will have served 47 years as head of the Nation's top law enforcement agency.

During these years, he has made the FBI into the most outstanding law enforcement agency in the world—an agency feared by the underworld and the enemies of America.

Mr. Hoover is the target of relentless criticism from the so-called peace groups in the country and, I regret to note, even from some of our so-called leaders in the Congress.

The sad truth is that Mr. Hoover is only the incidental target. The real aim is to tear down the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the agency responsible for America's internal security. Director Hoover is merely the symbol, and by attacking him, revolutionary forces in this country hope to weaken us internally.

Their ultimate aim, of course, is the destruction of the United States as we know it and the substitution of a different form of government.

So the attacks continue.

They attack Mr. Hoover's professional ability. They attack his motives. They attack his ethics, his personal life, and even rummage in the trash can behind his house.

Records are stolen, and selected excerpts are fed to certain "friendly" news media to create a false impression about FBI activities. The FBI is accused of widespread wiretapping without proper legal authority, but no evidence is forthcoming.

The objective clearly is to destroy public confidence in the FBI and create an atmosphere of suspicion that will allow the forces of revolution to breed and flourish.

Not unexpectedly, Mr. Hoover's critics stumble all over themselves when asked to produce a single shred of evidence to document their charges. Finally, they argue that proof is not needed because they believe the charges are true.

So J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI are condemned—without proof—as the targets of half-truths and outright distortions, and are tried by innuendo as the victims of a relentless effort at character assassination.

This is a free country, and the public has the right—indeed, the duty—to scrutinize the activities of Mr. Hoover and the FBI, as well as every other Government agency in the United States. But true Americans will do this openly, fairly, and with the aim of improving the agency and strengthening our internal security, rather than weakening and destroying it.

Strangely enough, all Americans, including those who relentlessly attack the FBI, are guaranteed this right because of the tireless work of men like J. Edgar Hoover and the dedicated Americans who serve in the FBI.

STOKES LEAVES 'EM BEWILDERED

HON. LOUIS STOKES

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, April 29, 1971

Mr. STOKES. Mr. Speaker, the city of Cleveland, Ohio, which includes my congressional district, has long been plagued by inept leadership, divisive politics, and racial polarity. In 1967, however, Carl B. Stokes was elected mayor of our city after a previously unsuccessful campaign for that office. The national spotlight was focused on the first major city in the United States to elect a black mayor; the local press sang his praises; Clevelanders spoke of a new era of good feeling; all was sweetness and light. Until Mayor Stokes set out to find and implement some meaningful solutions to the city's problems.

After two terms in office, Mayor Stokes has announced that he will not be a candidate for reelection. It is obvious that decision was based upon his utter frustration with the resistance and obstructionism he encountered from those citizens and public officials who placed his defeat above the best interests of their troubled city.

Don Robertson of the Cleveland Press recently wrote an article entitled "Stokes Leaves 'Em Bewildered." I feel it sums up the past 4 years of Cleveland's political history very well and commend it to the attention of my colleagues:

STOKES LEAVES 'EM BEWILDERED

(By Don Robertson)

I love the Plain Dealer. I really do. Especially its editorial page. Over years, it has provided the Greater Cleveland community with a sort of laughing gas of the mind, and you can almost always count on its pundits to get to the heart of an issue and reduce it to complete unintelligibility.

This requires great skill and is almost an art form. Consider, as an example, this gem which was published two mornings ago.

"Mayor Stokes' decision not to seek a third term was surprising at this time though there has been considerable controversy recently over his leadership."

Hey, no kidding. That's really laying it on the line.

Ah now, but seriously, folks, I simply quote from the editorial in an effort to describe a state of mind . . . and, for want of a better word, call that state of mind bewilderment.

The politicians are bewildered. The people are bewildered. White people are bewildered. Black people are bewildered. And even columnists are bewildered. At the same time, the mayoral election has been thrown open to just about everyone except Mortimer Snerd and King, the Wonder Dog.

I have no idea what Stokes intends to do after his term expires, but I do know that in the past year or so he has been terribly discouraged. In his view, an entrenched and short-sighted establishment has stood in the way of his efforts to bring people together and get the city going again. Also, he feels he has been badgered and bedeviled by racism, Council, the newspapers and both political parties.

And he obviously is right. The establishment is no different than it was four years ago. White racists will always despise black people who hold public office. The Council has never gotten along with any mayor. The newspapers are not in business to make public officials look good. And, finally, both political parties have indeed formed a loose confederation aimed at forcing Stokes out of office.

This last point is very interesting. What will happen to all those petition drives now? It is my guess that the Democrats will drop out very quickly, figuring that their candidate will be white and that a white Democrat will beat a white Republican any day of the week. (And, for that reason, forget all the talk about Ralph Park being a front runner.)

The political reaction to Stokes' announcement is quite interesting, especially the remarks attributed to those Stokes haters in Council who were drooling in their anxiety to get rid of him and now turn around and accuse him of "betraying" the city.

As for Stokes himself, all I can say is that he was an imperfect, stubborn, bright and courageous mayor, and I wish him well. The dock was stacked against him, and there were four cards on the Board of Grievances even changed the rules in an effort to get him out of office, and yet he never gave up. Not really. I expect we'll be hearing from him again, and quite soon.

increase in crime brought on by national permissiveness, extremist activity, riots, city rioting and street violence, and organized crime.

The FBI's meritorious service began with Mr. Hoover's appointment 47 years ago, but the Director himself is quick to add that it is hardly a one-man operation.

Mr. Hoover has said:

To tell the story of the FBI, is to recite the history of men and women seeking to make America more secure. It is the story of a long line of citizens who form a solid front against crime.

Those men and women today make up the best-educated, best-trained, most effective force in the law enforcement field.

The FBI has come to be generally recognized as "the elite corps of law enforcement in this country," and the reputation is well-deserved.

Fewer than 8,500 special agents investigate 800,000 criminal cases a year, and their thorough and careful investigative work has resulted in an astonishing percentage of convictions. In 1968, for example, 97.3 percent of their arrests resulted in conviction.

The success of their efforts has been praised by hundreds of the Nation's leaders in the past half-century.

In 1964, the House of Representatives passed a unanimous resolution praising both Mr. Hoover and the FBI for their outstanding service to America.

I believe the words of that resolution ring as true today as they did 6 years ago, and I believe they bear repeating, as a fitting tribute on this special day.

The resolution read in part:

Throughout his tenure in office, J. Edgar Hoover has consistently displayed strong moral determination and great personal foresight in recognizing the threat and meeting the challenge of deadly enemies of American freedom.

Under his brilliant leadership, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has waged a fearless and unrelenting battle against America's criminal and subversive underworlds while at the same time fully observing and protecting the rights and privileges guaranteed by the Constitution and the laws of the United States.

J. Edgar Hoover and his Federal Bureau of Investigation associates have brought new standards of efficiency, integrity and impartiality to the law enforcement profession and have truly earned the admiration and respect of all right-thinking citizens.

These words of high praise are well-deserved. Today we are still a law-abiding Nation, despite the rashes of lawlessness with which the FBI has had to deal.

Today we are still a free society, despite the threats that have been posed by Nazi and Communist and revolutionary subversion.

It is no coincidence, and certainly no paradox, that the greatest law enforcement agency in the world should be found in the freest society in the world.

I believe the two are closely related, that each is to a large degree dependent on the other, and I am grateful that they are both realities today.

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Speaker, today we pay tribute to a great American, J. Edgar Hoover, on his 47th anniversary as Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. As we honor the man we also honor the organization—and rightly so, for in the eyes of most Americans, J. Edgar Hoover is the FBI.

Under his leadership, the FBI has become the most effective law enforcement agency in the world, working tirelessly to protect America's internal security.

For millions of patriotic, law-abiding Americans, J. Edgar Hoover is one of the Nation's most dedicated and highly respected public officials; for lawbreakers, leaders of the criminal underworld, for the Communists, and other enemies of America, Mr. Hoover is the enemy. And that, perhaps, says more about J. Edgar Hoover than we can here today.

Mr. Hoover's abilities, courage and selfless dedication to the preservation of our Nation serve as an inspiration to all Americans. A tribute to his service is both timely and long overdue.

Mr. Hoover has achieved a remarkable record during his 47 years as America's top lawman.

Mr. SLACK. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to be numbered among those who have united to extend to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover congratulations on the 47th anniversary of his service in office.

During the past 10 years I have been a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee for the Departments of State, Commerce, Justice, and the Judiciary under Chairman JOHN ROONEY, and each year Mr. Hoover and his able staff have appeared to testify in support of the Bureau's budget request.

Down through those years I have come to admire the practical and businesslike manner in which the Bureau is operated. Each year the record reflects knowledgeable and convincing testimony providing more than adequate justification for all funds requested. It is an impressive tribute to the quality of thoroughness for which the Bureau is world famous.

The people of the United States are well served by the world's premier professional domestic police organization, and yet have no cause to fear the evils that can arise when a single national police power crisscrosses the land.

This is a singular tribute to the policies and convictions of the Director, as he has often expressed them. We congratulate him today as we must congratulate ourselves on our good fortune in his continuing service.

Mr. GOLDWATER. Mr. Speaker, today marks the anniversary of an event which will pass unnoticed by many Americans, but which has been of singular significance for the safety and well-being of the American people.

I am referring, of course, to the 47th anniversary of J. Edgar Hoover's assumption of office as head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

During his 47 years of tenure, he has guided the FBI to the forefront of all law-enforcement agencies, so that it is a model for swift and impartial apprehension of criminals. The FBI, under Mr. Hoover's leadership, has kept pace with the changing crises of society, and today faces and deals with such diverse problems as organized crime and internal terrorism.

In the face of current and unwarranted attacks on Mr. Hoover, we should remember that no one has been able to make any sort of case against his outstanding performance as Director. Age is being made the sole basis for criticism, and if we were to extend this concept to all of our Government, many of our most able leaders would have to step down. Mr. Hoover encompasses a half century of valuable crimefighting experience, and we should recognize and reward this value, not denigrate it.

I think, moreover, that we should also pay tribute to Mr. Hoover for his high restraint in office. Given its massive expertise and the backing of the Federal Government, the FBI could readily have become a national police force. Instead, Mr. Hoover has clearly and carefully delineated the FBI's responsibilities on the Federal level, and set procedures for backing up and strengthening local police forces in the performance of their own functions. In an era of burgeoning big government, this is a truly impressive feat.

In conclusion, let me say that I think we owe Mr. Hoover a large debt of honor, and in this time of civil disrespect and strife, it is especially important that we are vocal in acknowledging that debt.

Mr. FASCELL. Mr. Speaker, 47 years ago today, a young man took over the scandal-ridden Division of Investigation in the Justice Department with a mandate from the then-Attorney General, Harlan Fiske Stone, to clean house. The young man, of course, was J. Edgar Hoover, and not only did he clean house, he built an investigatory agency which has effectively protected the security of this Nation during a difficult half century.

"To tell the story of the FBI is to recite the history of men and women seeking to make America more secure," the Director wrote in 1946. "It is the story of a long line of citizens who form a solid front against crime."

Most would agree that the story of the FBI is primarily the story of one man: J. Edgar Hoover. Born near Capitol Hill in 1895, the Director received a law and masters degree from George Washington University before joining the Justice Department in 1917. Even before becoming head of the Bureau of Investigation, he experienced in combating subversive activities through his early work against Communist and Ku Klux Klan organizations.

Over the years, the FBI has successfully protected the internal security of this Nation such as kidnapping, gangsterism, Nazi and Communist espionage and subversion, extremism from the right and left, and organized crime. As Tom Wicker wrote recently:

J. Edgar Hoover's life has been the FBI that he created; his pride is to have kept it and himself independent and powerful; his genius is that he has known exactly how to do it.

I feel particularly privileged to have come in contact with the Director in my capacity from 1963 to 1971 as chairman of the House Government Operations Subcommittee on Legal and Monetary Affairs, which has oversight jurisdiction

COMMENDING J. EDGAR HOOVER, DIRECTOR, FEDERAL BUREAU OF

HON. C. W. BILL YOUNG

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Monday, November 8, 1971

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Speaker, in this period of time when it seems that we are continually confronted with turmoil and strife and protests from within the country against America, it is indeed heartening to find an organization which is totally dedicated to our country and which holds true the guiding principles upon which our Nation was founded. The American Legion is a national organization of people who have made it their responsibility to stand up for America. Because of the selfless dedication of these patriots, I am pleased to have the honor of introducing the following resolutions adopted this year at their national convention, and I commend the Legionnaires for their support of and adherence to the principles embodied in these resolutions. I hope that others, too, might follow their leadership for the benefit of our Nation and its future.

The resolutions follow:

COMMENDING J. EDGAR HOOVER, DIRECTOR,
FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

(Origin: Department of Louisiana; Res. No. 90—Wisconsin; Res. No. 261—Nevada; Res. No. 267—Maryland; Res. No. 345—North Dakota; Res. No. 389 using No. 19 and text of No. 261.)

Whereas, J. Edgar Hoover has been a staunch defender of the rights and freedoms of the citizens of this great Republic without regard to race, creed or color; and

Whereas, Mr. Hoover being a faithful servant of the people of this Nation, has through his untiring efforts exposed the enemies of the United States of America from within; and

Whereas, The attempted downgrading of, and clamor for forced retirement of Mr. Hoover must be held in contempt by the overwhelming majority of the people of this Nation; and

Whereas, Former Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson and President Richard M. Nixon have continued J. Edgar Hoover as Director of the F.B.I.; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By The American Legion in National Convention assembled in Houston, Texas, August 31–September 1, 2, 1971, that The American Legion hereby commends J. Edgar Hoover for his untiring efforts, for his devotion to duty, and for the vigorous and impartial manner in which the F.B.I. conducts its business; and, be it further

My dear Congressman:

I have your communication of February 18, 1972, enclosing a letter from [redacted] concerning his arrest record.

Our files contain fingerprints of one [redacted] who may be identical with your constituent, which were submitted to us by the Stamford, Connecticut, Police Department in connection with an arrest for larceny on February 18, 1966. Our records do not show that any disposition for this arrest was submitted to us by the arresting agency.

As of this date, we have not received a request from any agency concerning the return of [redacted] fingerprints. Therefore, as long as arrest data appears in our identification files, it is available for dissemination to authorized agencies upon their request.

Certainly the FBI interposes no objection to expunging such non-Federal arrest data and regularly effects such expunction by returning fingerprints to the arresting agency. This usually occurs when charges have been dismissed, subject acquitted or other similar action taken. The return of the fingerprints results in the complete and automatic expunction of the arrest record from our files. The submitting agency must indicate sufficient identifying data, such as FBI number or their own registry number, to insure the return of the correct fingerprints. I am sure you will understand the necessity for a uniform policy to be followed in view of the voluminous nature of our information make the spies' job even easier. I know of no other Nation in the world where an individual can make public top secret information and go unpunished.

On top of this continual sapping from within, we now find that there are so many foreign agents entering our Nation that the FBI is unable to adequately keep track of them all. This is a truly dangerous situation, and one which should not be allowed to continue. We have maintained our position as defender of freedom and arbiter of world peace only through our position as the No. 1 power in the world, and we can allow no situation which will threaten that supremacy. The continued and unmonitored presence of large numbers of foreign espionage agents in our country clearly threatens our national security.

The Congress must take corrective action immediately. We must set legislative goals which put America first, which tighten up our security, and which punish those who make classified information available to unauthorized persons. We must give the FBI the manpower and funds necessary to protect our national security and monitor those who would disrupt our society. Freedom of speech and press under the Constitution are imperative guarantees, but I do not believe our forefathers meant them to be carried to such extremes as to threaten the very foundations of our national security and give aid and comfort to our enemies.

Mr. Speaker, following is the news report of Mr. Kelley's remarks to which I have referred:

FBI DIRECTOR WANTS MORE ANTISPY AGENTS

(By Bob Kuttner)

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley yesterday warned that the FBI doesn't have enough agents to keep track of the growing number of foreign spies in the United States, and said he is considering asking for 250 new agents to work just on internal security.

Kelley's comments came at a luncheon for reporters who regularly cover the Justice Department. It was the second such gathering this year.

Covering a wide variety of topics, Kelley told reporters:

The FBI should play a greater coordinating role in local law enforcement by serving as a clearinghouse, but not to the extent of becoming a national police force. He disclosed that the FBI's data banks now have reports on some 60,000 local police projects to exchange among police departments.

The FBI has no explanation for the 16 per cent jump in serious crimes reported during the first half of 1974, but he is certain that the decline reported during 1972 was not an election-year statistical manipulation.

He opposes privacy legislation that would permit federal employees to see comments in their files obtained from informants during pre-employment investigations. He also rejects proposals to expunge arrest records where no conviction resulted, because frequently "the arrest in itself was a good arrest."

The FBI has no new information on kidnapped heiress Patricia Hearst. "I'd like to say Patty, come on in," Kelley said, gesturing at the doorway.

He still supports efforts to permit the FBI to wiretap without warrants in "domestic subversion" cases, and opposes pending legislation to require court approval for national security wiretaps, which are now allowed without a warrant.

The FBI found no links between the Symbionese Liberation Army and any foreign power, Kelley said. "Had there been any we might have gotten warrantless tapping."

He said his speech last week to the American Legion warning about increased espionage was prompted in part by concern about new restrictions on wiretapping.

Kelley told reporters there is a growing gap in the ratio of FBI agents to Communist diplomats and visitors all of whom he called "potential agents gathering information."

The best system would be "one FBI agent for each espionage agent," Kelley said, but "our budget doesn't allow it." He declined to say whether Communist diplomatic representation should be reduced, terming that a subject "in the area of detente."

As part of the FBI's stated new policy of openness with the public and the press, Kelley invited reporters to interview any of the bureau's assistant directors, and to visit the FBI Academy at Quantico, Va.

THREAT TO NATIONAL SECURITY

(Mr. YOUNG of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute, to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous matter.)

Mr. YOUNG of Florida.—Mr. Speaker, I rise to express my grave concern over a news report that the FBI does not have enough agents to keep track of the growing number of foreign spies in the United States.

In an informal meeting with members of the news media yesterday, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said that he was considering asking Congress for 250 additional agents to work just on internal security. According to Kelley, the FBI is now undertaking an internal readjustment to increase the number of agents working on internal security, but if this readjustment does not supply the necessary manpower, he will have to ask Congress for assistance.

Mr. Speaker, it is a sad commentary on our priorities that foreign agents are able to roam this Nation at will, and at the same time continual leaks of top secret

Mr. Young added, "Discussing the threats to our domestic security, Mr. Kelley noted that the number of terrorist bombings by new left revolutionaries had jumped from 24 in 1973 to 45 last year, and that during the first 6 months of this year alone there were 46 such bombings. - - - Mr. Kelley's speech also contains a number of examples of FBI domestic security work which has blocked terrorist activities, and I believe this information provides a much-needed counterbalance to the attacks of those who would cripple the effectiveness of the FBI. I urge my colleagues to take careful note of this important speech and to support the efforts of the FBI to protect our freedoms. "

Memorandum to the Director
Re: VISIT OF REPRESENTATIVE
C. W. (BILL) YOUNG (R-FLA)
TO DETROIT OFFICE OF FBI
3/2/79

On 2/28/79, Mr. Arthur B. Fulton, Deputy Assistant Director, Intelligence Division (INTD), advised that his Division had no objection to Representative Young's proposed visit and briefing. SA [ ] also contacted Mr. Sebastian S. Mignosa, Section Chief, Terrorism Section, Criminal Investigative Division, who also interposed no objection to an overall briefing on the Detroit terrorism program.

b6
b7c

At the suggestion of Mr. John A. Mintz, Assistant Director, LCD, SA [ ] telephonically contacted Mr. O. Franklin Lowie, SAC, Detroit, regarding Representative Young's request. SAC Lowie advised that he would be available to brief the Representative on either Friday, 3/2/79, or Saturday, 3/3/79. He noted that SA [ ] Supervisor of the FCI and Terrorism Desk, would also sit in on the briefings. SA [ ] advised SAC Lowie that that portion of the briefing pertaining to FCI and terrorism should be confined to a broad overview of those programs. SA [ ] also informed SAC Lowie that Mr. Fulton would contact him on 3/1/79 to discuss further the scope of the briefings.

b7c

On 3/1/79, Mr. Fulton advised SA [ ] that he had contacted SAC Lowie and authorized him to give Representative Young a broad overview briefing of the FCI and terrorism programs. Mr. Fulton noted that he extended authority to discuss the terrorism program after consultation with Mr. Mignosa.

On 3/1/79, SA [ ] informed [ ] that SAC Lowie would be available to meet with Representative Young. In this regard, [ ] noted that a letter from the Committee confirming the Representative's request would be forthcoming. She advised that she would advise the Representative of the above and let us know of his travel arrangements.

b7c

In view of the limited nature and extent of Representative Young's briefing, LCD does not believe an FBIHQ representative is needed to accompany the Representative.

Reference airtels to ADIC, New York dated 9/20/79,

Reference airtel of 9/20/79, sets forth both background on Congressman Young and my approval for Congressman Young and a Staff Member of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence to visit both the New York
Office and Miami Division for briefing purposes.
Congressman Young's visit, however, was subsequently postponed because of pressing Congressional business.

Congressman Young has now, however, indicated that he will be able to visit the Miami Division on either March 28 or in mid-April, 1980.

Congressman Young has indicated he is interested in being briefed on the Miami Division's Foreign Counter-Intelligence and Counterterrorism Programs. Specifically, he is interested in the activities of Cuban and/or other hostile intelligence services in the Miami Division territory such as collection of protected information, collection against Cuban exiles and agent of influence operations. He is also interested in knowing the extent to which Cuban exiles may be subjected to harassment by hostile intelligence services.

Congressman Young is also interested in the manner the Miami Division is managing and allocating its resources in these programs.
